BARN OWL

SELF-EVIDENT

The second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence begins with one of the most powerful and earth-shaking statements ever written. Thomas Jefferson wrote: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

The word "self-evident" stands out. We don't use that word much. Self-evident means more than "obvious" -- it means unquestionable -- something so true that it needs no proof. The basis of the Declaration springs from this statement. Jefferson was saying it is beyond any doubt that all men are created equal and that our creator gave us rights to life, liberty and happiness that cannot be taken away.

These were bold words in 1776. Americans were the first to embrace those words. But ideals alone do not make something real. Our new nation was dipped in contradictions. In 1776, only white men who owned property were considered "equal." Even with such great words, we allowed slavery, and women had no rights. Over time, brave people have used Jefferson's words to prove that "all men" also means all women and all people of color. It wasn't that long ago that our parents and grandparents saw black people forced to sit in the back of the bus and drink from different water fountains. Girls had their dress length measured in front of the class and were told they couldn't play sports. Women could not have their own bank accounts.

We have come a long way but still there are citizens who question whether those truths are really "self-evident." They argue what Jefferson meant or if the words were ever meant for everyone. These are the same people who stood beside us in grade school and, with hand on heart, pledged allegiance to a country that promised "liberty and justice for all."

Today, the ideals we pledged to as children are being challenged by people in power. These people don't see why they should honor any ideals but their own. They don't see that law applies to them. They represent a small and privileged group who are not people dedicated to public service or to what the rest of us want.

It is self-evident only to them that they are above the law.

AND GOD SAYS . . .

Have you ever discovered some truth or insight and said to yourself, “I wish I had heard or known that years ago? Things would surely have been different if I had?”

I remember when, as a young married man and already in the ministry, I heard some very clear teaching on the fifth commandment, “Honor your father and your mother, so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you.” (Exodus 20:12). I remember hearing practical insights that made so much sense and thinking, “I wish I had heard this before. I wouldn’t have made the mistakes I’ve made.”

But then I became keenly aware of the fact that I had heard this teaching before. The issue was not that I hadn’t heard this truth, the issue was that I was not willing to receive it. In my pride and selfish nature I had not ready to accept this teaching. I knew better than my parents. I thought, “It’s my life and I will live it the way I want to. It’s my business, not theirs.”

But I was wrong and they were right, and I have the scars, not just physical scars, but emotional and spiritual scars, to prove it. The day that I wrote my father and mother and asked their forgiveness for my rebellion and defiance was a special day. It was a day that brought great peace and joy into my life as well as a deepening closeness and and more open relationship with my parets.

In the same way, there is another truth that is continually being taught but many do not want to hear it. Maybe you are one of those. That truth is the truth of Jesus Christ dying for our sins. The fact is, you know that things are not right in your relationship with God but you do not want to change. You want to live your life your way, not his. But the consequences are devastating! Not only does your hope for meaning and fullness in your life keep coming up empty, but the future for your life is without hope. This is because God says the future for anyone who does not turn to him in repentance is eternal judgment in hell. God says, “now is the day of salvation,” (2 Corinthians 6:2). I hope you are ready to hear this truth and turn to Jesus with all your heart and find the fullness of life today you really want and the hope of eternal life for tomorrow.

Clark County Humane Society's Pet of the Week

"JENNY"
Jenny is the CCHS Pet of the Week!

Jenny came to CCHS with her brothers Forrest and Dan from a local farm mid-November. This cute girl is an Australian Shepherd mix. She is now 10 weeks old (estimated DOB 9/17/25) and weighs 6.4#. Jenny is so very pretty with her fluffy coat that is white, black and tan. And the best part is that Jenny is just as sweet as she is pretty. She has a happy personality, just ready to share good times with anybody she meets. She's looking forward to making lots of wonderful memories with her new family. If you're ready for a new best friend, Jenny could be your girl! With any puppy, training and socialization are incredibly important to the success of the pup. Apply to adopt Jenny today!

Do you have a love for cats and dogs and have been thinking it would be nice to help out at CCHS? Well, now's your chance! Whether it's a few hours a week, one day a month, or something in between, this is your opportunity to try it out. We are very much in need of volunteers! You can learn more and sign up on our website: <https://www.cchs-petshelter.org/volunteer> or email April at cchsoutreach1@gmail.com. Come join our CCHS volunteer family!
